Ferrer Executed.

Francisco Ferrer, who was convicted of promoting the recent Barcelona rebellion, was shot Wednesday morning in Montjuich prison in execution of the sentence of death imposed upon him. All Europe was stirred by the news and demonstrations followed in Paris, Rome and Brussels. The Police had a lively encounter with the crowd led by Socialists in Paris.

Three Withdraw From Race.

Col. George M. Edgar, Mrs. Fannie Sutherland and D. C. Lisle, candidates for the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. F. L. McChesney, Superintendent of County Schools, Wednesday withdrew from the race, leaving the fight between Misses Mabel Robbins and Macie Talbott. Mrs. Sutherland was Mr. McChesney's opponent in the last canvass. The County Committee met and ordered precinct conventions for today to select a candidate. Miss Robbins is of Little Rock, and Miss Talbott of North Middletown, and the fight today is expected to be rather warm.

Bourbon County Medical Society

The Bourbon County Medical Society held its October meeting last evening at the court house with an interesting program. The chief paper of the meeting was that of Dr. Chas. Southor, of Cincinnati, on "Intestinal Obstruction, Symptoms, Diagnosis and Treatment." The discussion was opened by Dr. W. G. Daily, of Millersburg, and Dr. J. A. Gilkey, of North Middletown. The subject was handled in a clear and forceful manner and was highly appreciated by the practitioners present.

The most interesting session of the society will be the November meeting, when Dr. Albert H. Freiberg, of Cincinnati, will discuss "Chronic Non-Tubercular Arthritis." Participating in the discussion of this important subject will be a number of prominent Lexington physicians and specialists, among whom will be Dr. Benjamin Van Meter, Dr. David Barrow, Dr. W. O. Bullock and Dr. A. H. Barclay. At the meeting in December the annual election of officers will take place. A number of Paris physicians will attend the meeting in Louisville Oct. 19-21.

Crossed the Ocean to Supervise One
 Course of a Dinner.

George W. Harvey, the inventor of steamed oysters and a famous restaurant keeper, was once the hero of an incident that in some respects made the exploits of Lucullus and other noted gourmets of ancient Rome look cheap and commonplace. He made a 6,000 mile journey to cook or supervise the cooking of a single course of a dinner.

A wealthy Englishman noted for his love of good living while on a visit to Washington was given a dinner at Harvey's, at which terrapin formed the piece de resistance. It was the first time the Englishman had encountered the famous Maryland delicacy, and it made an instantaneous and profound impression on him. He decided that he would introduce the dish to his London friends and at once entered into negotiations with Harvey to come to London and do the cooking.

Harvey named his price, and it was accepted without a murmur, although it was a stiff one, as he was a very portly man and did not like to travel. At the appointed time he engaged his passage for England, took a sufficient number of live terrapin along with him and sailed for London. He supervised the preparation of the turtles in the kitchen of his generous employer, saw that they were cooked and served properly, collected his £200 honorarium and his expenses and took the next steamer back to New York—Exchange,

Wrong Spring Dedicated.

As much is now being published in regard to the wrong spring being dedicated by members of the D. A. R. at Bryant Station, we glean the following facts from a special in Sunday's Courier-Journal from Lexington which will be of interest to many of our readers, viz:

In 1896 the members of Bryant Station Chapter of the D. A. R. of Lexington erected the only monument built by women to women in America and, perhaps, in the world. The memorial was a wall and tablet at a spring near the site near Lexington of the old Bryant Station fort of pioneer days for the purpose of commemorating the heroic action of the women of the fort in going to the spring which supplied the fort with water and bringing the necessary supply when the fort was besieged by hostile Indians, rather than impose the perilous duty on the men of the garrison, whose lives were so necessary to the lives of all within the fort.

Every dollar of the funds required to inclose the historic spring and erect the monument was earned and contributed by the noble women of Bryant Station Chapter. The memorial was dedicated with impressive ceremonies, patriotic and historical addresses were made by distinguished men, and the spring around which had been woven so much of heroism, romance and song was set aside as a hallowed shrine at which future generations could pay their tribute to the heroic women who accomplished one of the bravest deeds of pioneer days.

Now it seems probable that the noble women who erected this memorial built it over the wrong spring. Not only is it probable that they marked and consecrated the wrong spring, but a spring that in all likelihood was at the time of the heroic deed as dry as a bone, and which is situated at the foot of a cliff so steep that no woman could dignifiedly descend it, and certainly could not scramble up it with a bucket full of water. Meanwhile, the neverfailing spring, which was the real scene of the famous feat, stands in a barnyard more than 200 yards away, and unnoticed, pours out its waters in the humble mission of ministering to the cows and pigs which now wend their way down the gentle slope from the old fort to quench their thirst.

Such excellent authority as Prof. A. S. Mackenzie, occupying the chair of history at Kentucky State University; Judge James H. Mulligan, the famous orator and author, and John Wilson Townsend, the young Kentucky historian, are sure that a mistake has been made, and a note written by Col. R. T. Durrett, in the Filson Club paper on Bryant Station gives conclusive evidence that the wrong spring was chosen.

Judge Mulligan said today: "Oh, there is no doubt, about the wrong spring having been dedicated." Prof. Mackenzie and Mr. Townsend are similarly emphatic.

Mrs. James H. Mulligan, herself a member of Bryant Station Chapter, and to whom belongs the credit of having originated the idea and place of erecting the memorial says:

"I have some doubt now of our having selected the right spring." And Mrs. C. D. Chenault, State Regent of the D. A. R., in Kentucky, concedes:

"We believed we were right at the time, but I fear now we were mistaken." Furthermore, the man who owns the land upon which is the site of the old fort and the two springs is unhesitating in his declaration that the wrong spring was consecrated, and all of the people of the neighborhood who are familiar with the traditions concerning the place agree with him.

Thos. Woods, the prosperous farmer whose home stands on almost the identical spot where stood the whole fort, and who owns the land around it, said to a visitor who asked to be shown the famous spring:

"The spring which the women dedicated is one where you can see it from the road, but the real spring made famous in pioneer times is down there in the barn lot."

Mr. Woods said he did not know how the women of the Bryant Station happened to make the mistake, but why his stock for the gubernatorial nomination should be boosted.

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgement.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of KNOWN COMPOSITION. Ask YOUR NEIGHBORS. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Back to Sun Grown Tobacco.

An interesting situation exists in the tobacco regions of Florida and Georgia, according to Ernest Graves, of Bainbridge, Ga., who is visiting Cincinnati. Because of an over production of shade tobacco in this region, he says the planter will raise tobacco in the ordinary way under the sun without shade. Packers have bought the shade tobacco at a low rate, and are holding it, and with the absence of shade tobacco from the crop next year he predicts that that grade will command very high prices. Careless methods in growing has caused this situation. Mr. Graves avers. Encouraged by their success in growing shade tobacco, he said the growers paid less care in the erection of the sheds and the covering, with the result that the crop of 1907 came out inferior in quality and the New York manufacturers and large packers forced its price down, putting the Sumatra tobacco above that of the Southern States. These slipshod methods cost the planters a pretty penny as it cost 25 cents to produce a pound of the shade and they obtained but an average of 15 cents a pound. As it costs but eleven cents to produce a pound for ordinary sun grown tobacco for filling, which sells for 15 cents a pound, the growers will thus make the switch.

Words to Freeze the Soul.

"Your son has consumption. His case is hopeless." These appalling words were spoken to Geo. E. Blevens, a leading merchant of Springfield, N. C., by two expert doctors—one a lung specialist. Then was shown the wonderful power of Dr. King's New Discovery. After three weeks use," writes Mr. Blevens, "he was as well as ever I would not take all the money in the world for what it did for my boy." Infallible for Coughs and Colds, its the safest, surest cure of desperate Lung diseases on earth. 50c. and $1.00 at Oberdorfer's. Guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free.

"The Top O' Th' World."

In the big musical extravaganza, "The Top O' Th' World," which has won continued favor at the Casino and Majestic Theatres in New York City for the past six months, and for a similar period at the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago, to be seen at the Lexington Opera House Friday and Saturday and Saturday matinee appears our famous comedians, Fred Bailey, Ralph Austin, Charles Harris and Walter Wills. They are well known in this city through former appearances here.

Bailey and Austin are up to every trick in musical extravaganzas and their cleverness has won them such special favorable comment in the metropolis that they have now graduated to stardom, following closely into the wake of Montgomery and Stone. Charles Harris, the eccentric comedian who adopts "Old Maids" parts, has been credited by the most rigid of critics as being one of the few men who can play a woman's part without offense. Walter Wills, who played "Con Kidder" in the special "Red Mill" Company, is considered one of the best light and dainty comedians in America. Other clever people are Florence Smith, who was one of the first "San Toys" has the prima donna role, while Pearl Revare, who plays the part of the little girl who wants to grow up, and Al Grady, the famous animal impersonator, as the friendly bear, are all bound to cement their friendship with old admirers and gather in many new. The company includes seventy people with a chorus of beautiful girls, who dance and sing with great effect. The scenes are laid in Santa Claus' Workshop, a pass in the snowy mountains of the North Pole, a Palace of Aurora, Queen of Illusions, and the Plaza in the city of Illusions. There are plenty of song and dance successes and principal among them might be mentioned the famous "Collie Ballet," "How You'd Like to Be My Bow-wow-wow," "The One Girl," by Florence Smith, "Yankee Doodle Yarns," by Bailey and Austin, and "Why Don't You" by Pearl Revare. The plot concerns a toy maker, Shellman who parades Wellman in his attempts to discover the North Pole in a balloon, and the Queen of the North Pole played by Charles Harris. Jack Frost is a mild villain, who operates as Chancellor for the Queen; and Al Grady, who will be remembered for his amusing work as the lion in "The Wizard of Oz," plays a comedy character—"The Friendly Polar Bear." Pretty Pearl Revare will surely win laurels as Maida, as will Florence Smith as Kokomo, while Bailey and Austin as "Jack-in-the-Box" and the Candy Kid will prove a whole show in themselves.

Take Electric Bitters at once and see backache fly and all your best feelings return. "After long suffering from weak kidneys and lame back, one $1.00 bottle wholly cured me," writes J. R. Liver Trouble Remedy Free

Any intelligent person can be his own doctor in the ordinary case of liver trouble, for the symptoms cannot be mistaken. If the white of the eye becomes yellowish, if the skin becomes sallow, if pimples and blotches appear, if the bowels do not move, if you have sick headache, if you are bilious, you may be sure that your liver is torpid or inactive.

The quickest and surest remedy for the cure of liver trouble or any of its symptoms is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi, the great herb laxative compound. This wonderful remedy is not only a laxative, but a tonic as well. It will start the flow of gastric juice, thereby soon enabling the liver to do its work naturally & naturally. Of this great liver remedy can be bought of any druggist for 50 cents or $1. and in many cases a single bottle has cured a chronic case.

For example, John W. Lee, 619 S. Pennsylvania ave., Indianapolis, Ind., had a severe and very long-standing case of liver trouble, with all the symptoms, jaundice, etc., and it cured him. Mr. J. Flinchum, Jackson, Ky., says the same of it. Thousands of families keep it in the house against just such an emergency as you can never tell when some member of the family will need a good laxative.

In order to have you or any other sufferer from the liver make a test of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi without personal expense, Dr. Caldwell will send you a free sample. If you will send your name and address, we will mail it off, showing how pleasant it is to take, how gently it works. It will start you on the cure of your trouble and convince you that you have found a cure. That is the object of the sample, and the doctor urges you to send for it today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service.

The address is Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

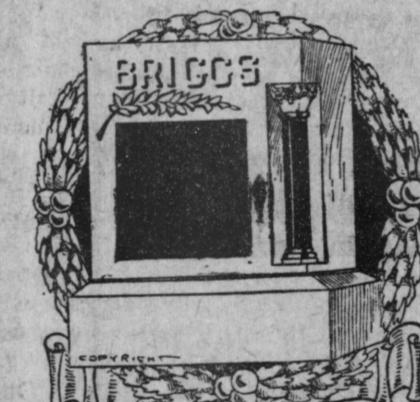

Amen!

The removal of the headquarters of the Burley Tobacco Society from Winchester to Lexington was a heavy blow to Winchester in a business way, and much bad feeling has resulted. It is very natural and altogether proper for Lexington to reach out for every enterprise that is, or promises to be profitable, but some of the good people of that city fall into an error when they claim that Lexington is "the logical headquarters" for any and everything in which the people of the Blue Grass section are interested.—Georgetown Times.

EZRA KENDALL IN "THE VINEGAR BUYER."

—As announced a few days ago, Ezra Kendall is to reappear in an up-to-date version of his old time play, "The Vinegar Buyer" at the Paris Grand, Monday night, Oct. 18. For his present tour in this old favorite, which is said to be merely a preliminary canter before he produces a new comedy being written for him by no less a pair of dramatists than Tarkington and Wilson, the authors of "The Man From Home," Messrs. Liebler & Company have engaged for his support, a company that is easily the strongest he has ever had. He has sent some good ones too, which is also one of the strongest to be sent on tour in a farce comedy this season, Kendall's leading lady for this season is Julia Stuart, who has often been called the best of the many Glory Quayles who following Viola Allen in that part in "The Christine."

Mr. Kendall's right hand man in comedy is Robert V. Ferguson, an excellent actor with a splendid record. Some of his best work was done with Mrs. Fiske in "Leah Kleschna," "Becky Sharp" and other plays of her repertoire. Frank Lyons who has been with Mr. Kendall before, also has a good comedy part.

A young pair of lovers will be played by Argyle Campbell and Lottie Alter, both associated with "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," the former as the creator of the part of Billy Wiggs and the latter that as "Lover Mary" who played that part in England, Australia and this country.

Emily Wakeman who has a good character part was for many years the principal "old lady" in Wm. Brady's productions. John Garrick created novel character parts in Israel Zangwill's first play, "The Children of the Ghetto." He has also been with Mr. Kendall several years. The others in the cast are J. A. Butler, William Holden and Queenie Phillips. "The Vinegar Buyer" comes here direct from the Lyric Theater, Cincinnati.

Primrose's all-star minstrels; St. Elmo and Ezra Kendall in "The Vinegar Buyer," all play Lexington the night after playing Paris.

"YANKEE DOODLE DETECTIVE."

One of the most successful, up-to-date and quick-moving productions that has yet been given a New York hearing, is James Kyne MacCurdy's sensational success, "The Yankee Doodle Detective," which has established itself as a play of strong dramatic strength and which is to be presented at the Paris Grand, tonight, Friday, Oct. 15.

"The Yankee Doodle Detective," tells the story of a young millionaire, who is falsely accused of the murder of her own father. "The Yankee Doodle Detective," in attempting to prove her innocence, finds that the police department is working against him. By disguising himself as an old Jew, he helps the heiress to make a thrilling escape from prison, and by his several disguises of an old gypsy fortune teller, an Italian pushcart peddler, and an Irish policeman, he proves the young girl's innocence and sends the guilty ones to the electric chair. The play itself, stirs a human chord in the breast of all and as for tears, pathos and laughter, it is suffused with it. The play is produced on a most pretentious scale by Chas. H. Wuerz.

Dr. Cook Not Disturbed.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, arrived at Buffalo, N. Y., Wednesday morning from Cleveland in the midst of a heavy snowstorm. He went directly to the Iroquois Hotel, stating that he would see the newspaper men there at 10 o'clock.

"I can only say that the actual living human witnesses of my journey to the Pole will themselves be able to disprove the distorted declarations put into their mouths by the statement issued by Commander Peary," said Dr. Cook today to the associated press.

"There could not be better testimony than that given by the men themselves before an unbiased body of inquirers. Commander Peary evidently regards their evidence as of the most profound importance, and so do I.

"It seems to me that he might have brought them along with him if he was so confident that they would corroborate his story. He, however, chose not to do so. I will therefore send for them as soon as possible and place them at the disposal of any competent interpreters whom the examining body may appoint."

Asked whether he would make a direct reply to Peary's statement, as had been intimated at an interview at Cleveland Tuesday night, Dr. Cook said:

"There is nothing to add to what already has been said. I do not intend to enter a newspaper controversy with anyone. I shall depend upon the witnesses who have already been brought into the case and prove my case by them." Dr. Cook was given a public reception on the Chamber of Commerce at noon.

Winner of Longest Balloon Flight

Winning the leaden cup for the longest flight made in a balloon under the auspices of the Aero Club of America, and breaking all previous records for long distance flights, A. Holland Forbes, of New York, and Max Fleischmann of Cincinnati, landed at noon Wednesday at Chesterfield county, twenty miles south of Richmond, Va. The trip was made in the balloon New York, in which Forbes won the duration contest in the Indianapolis contest.

Starting from the gas works in St. Louis at 5:30 Tuesday afternoon, the distance of 731 miles was made in nineteen hours and fifteen minutes at an average of thirty-eight miles an hour. The balloon passed Lynchburg at 10:30 Wednesday morning.

Soon in afternoon an apparently large body of water was seen ahead and a large town came into view below. Mr. Forbes and his companion thought the water might be Chesapeake Bay and the city Norfolk, and adjudged it better to descend before the ocean was reached. The hazy weather helped to deceive the aeronauts in this respect and it was not until a landing was effected that they discovered that the town was Petersburg, and the water the James river.

"St. Elmo" Pleases Good Crowd.

Willard Holcomb's dramatization of Augusta Evans Wilson's famous novel, "St. Elmo," was the attraction at the Grand on Wednesday evening. "St. Elmo," as a novel, though old in years, has found for itself a place in almost every family library, and the weight of time seems not to bear heavily upon the work. As a dramatization it is a jewel that will glisten in the light of the public eye for ages to come.

"St. Elmo" is a story of thrilling interest, play that abounds with strong situations, and the company which Mr. Glaser has selected is one of the truest merit. The principal characters of the piece are assigned to two of the cleverest performers that the people of this community have ever had the opportunity of seeing—Mr. Martin Alsop as St. Elmo Murray and Miss Elsa Berold, as Edna Earl, the blacksmith's granddaughter. The company was evenly balanced, each character bearing an individuality that is so seldom seen in a dramatic cast.

"St. Elmo" is the class of play that the people of Paris have so long sought. It is one that pleased a people that are good judges of drama and lovers of productions of the highest sort. A few more of this class and it will not be necessary for Paris theatre-goers to seek drama in the larger cities.

Republicans in a Muddle.

For the past week you could hear every time you walked up street that the Republican committee would meet that day and announce candidates for city offices, but up to this writing nothing has been done. The fact of the business is they are all in a muddle and fussing among themselves, not being able to agree on any one candidate and it will no doubt end as it began, in a muddle.

You can see little crowds of two or three Republicans bunched together on the street and occasionally hear one say we can beat this fellow and that fellow easy, and that is about all you can hear. Using a favorite expression of an old friend, we will say "it is all bosh." They have too many troubles in their own ranks to try even to put a single man over the plate.

There are two candidates running. Mr. J. W. Bacon for Mayor and the negro politician, Tom Johnson, for councilman in the Third Ward. They are candidates on their own hook we suppose, as the Republican committee has not met and declared them candidates of the Republican party. So there you are, Democrats know about as much about it as the quarreling Republicans do themselves.

For the second time, Mr. Bacon, a Democratic friend advises you to pull in your horns, or you will get them clipped off shorter than you want them.

Your chance to win is about the same chance that a snowball has got not to melt in bades, or a kerosene dog chasing an asbestos cat through the same place.

Now "G" you and Tom get together and talk this matter over and see if you can't reach the conclusion that we are right.

PURVEYORS TO ROYALTY.

Their Signs Constitute One of the Sights of London.

The American in London, on his first visit to that marvelous city, is struck by the number of signs over shops with the royal arms painted thereon and announcing that the tradesman is a purveyor to their majesties. Yet, when the matter is sifted, the number is not so large.

Officially, according to the London News, there are about 200 tradesmen in London who hold the royal warrant and are entitled to use the royal arms as a shop sign, with the accompanying words, "By royal appointment." The royal warrant has to be received, signed and sealed in due form; otherwise, if a tradesman styles himself a purveyor to a member of the royal family without this formal permission, he is guilty of an offense which is punishable by a fine not exceeding £20. Moreover, he is liable to a similar fine if he uses arms so nearly resembling the royal arms as to lead people to believe that he is carrying on his business under the authority of royalty. Several instances have occurred of the enforcement of these penalties.

The warrants are exhibited in the shop windows, headed by the royal arms and bearing the signature of the lord chamberlain, the comptroller of the royal household, the treasurer of the latter, or of the master of the horse, etc., according to the circumstances.

SMOKING A PIPE.

It is Said to Give the Face a Square Jawed Effect.

"There is one question I always ask a man who wants a job," remarked the business man who has to hire several hundred men for different positions each year.

The question I always ask them is, 'Do you smoke a pipe much?' Of course the answers are various. Some of them smoke a pipe a great deal and others not at all.

"Why do I ask about the pipe? Well, not that I have the least interest in their habits or that I have any prejudice one way or another in the matter. The reason is that I want to know whether the formation of their lower jaws is natural or acquired.

"A man with a firm lower jaw is always a man of parts and of will. I say 'always'—anyway, most always. If he does not smoke a pipe his square jaw, back near where it hangs on to the upper one, is natural. If he is a pipe smoker the looks are deceiving, and I have to judge his caliber some other way.

"Pipe smokers always have strong muscles back on the face about the place man stops when he makes the first stroke downward in shaving. These are the muscles that hold the jaws together. They often give a square jawed effect to a man who hasn't any square jaw characteristics. My men think I ask funny questions, but there's a reason."—New York Times.

British and German Physique.
Ten millions of our people inhabit dwellings inferior to the kennels provided for the hounds in a well managed hunt. The results of living in dwellings unfit for human habitation and the prevalence of a dietary scale from which English meat, bread and milk are excluded are fatal to successful rivalry with a virile and healthy race where agriculture is fostered for strategical reasons.

Having spent hours in watching the arrival of the early morning trains in Berlin and Hamburg, I am appalled with the contrast between the vigorous and well set up, broad chested and healthy looking clerks, brawny shopmen and stalwart laborers on the other side of the North sea and the champagne shouldered, cow hocked, pigeon chested, lack luster trainfolds of men of the same classes landed at Liverpool street, Victoria and Charing Cross.—Arnold White in London World.

He Studied It.
H. Rider Haggard in "A Winter Pilgrimage" tells this anecdote:

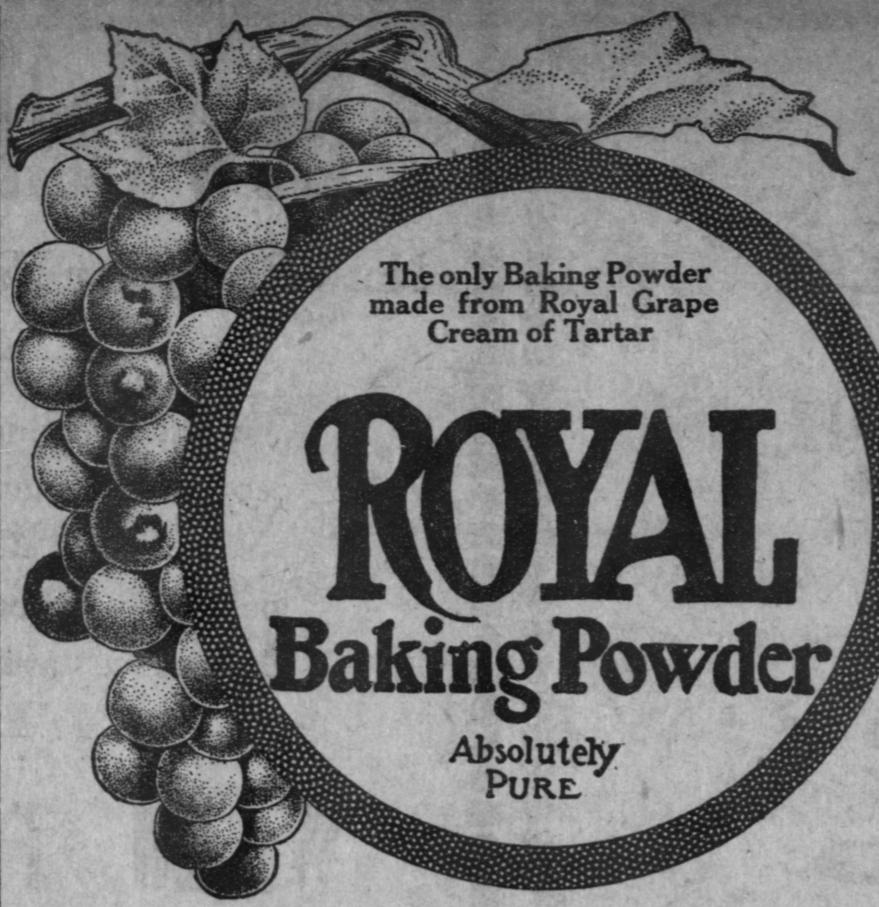

"When I was a 'soaring human boy' my father took me up the Rhine by boat with the hope and expectation that my mind would be improved by contemplating its lovely and historic banks. Wearying of this feast very soon, I slipped down to the cabin to enjoy one more congenial, that of 'Robinson Crusoe.' But some family traitor betrayed me, and, protesting even with tears that I hated views, I was dragged to the deck again. 'I have paid 6 thalers,' shouted my justly indignant parent as he hauled me up the steamer stairs, 'for you to study the Rhine scenery, and, whether you like it or not, young man, study it you shall!'"

Much Married.
The following, taken from "Evelyn's Diary," refers to a Dutchwoman who lived in the seventeenth century: "Towards the end of August I returned to Haarlem. They showed us a cottage where, they told us, dwelt a woman who had been married to her twenty-fifth husband and, being now a widow, was prohibited to marry in the future, yet it could not be proved that she had ever made away with any of her husbands, though the suspicion had brought her divers times into trouble."

YOUNG DUCKS.

They Have No Instinctive Impulse to Enter the Water.

It has turned out, under the searching experimentation of recent years, that much that we have supposed to be instinct in animals is not instinct at all. For example, the young duck proves to have no instinctive impulse to enter the water, does not recognize the element by sight and is, in short, in precisely the same situation as a chick until, by happy chance, it gets its legs wet. Wet legs, however, and the lift of the water on the body at once start up the swimming reaction, and away sails the duckling, as chickens and children do not.

The chick, on its part, has a definite instinct to peck at any small object that catches its eye. That takes care of its feeding. But the chick has no corresponding instinct to drink and would die of thirst before it would recognize water by sight alone. Drinking it has to learn for itself by pecking at dewdrops or spots of light on the surface of the water or particles at the bottom of its cup. Even the hen, contrary to general belief, proves to have no instinctive fear of the water for her offspring. A hen that has raised a few broods of ducks and seen them take to the water becomes highly distressed when a subsequent hatch of chickens do not swim. In fact, hens have been reported under these circumstances to lead their chicks to the waterside and push them in.—McClure's Magazine.

NESTS IN GULF WEED.

Breeding Place of the Flying Fish in the Sargasso Sea.

In the middle of the north Atlantic there is an area of comparatively still water almost equal to continental Europe in extent and more or less covered by floating seaweed. It was known as the Mar de Sargaco to Columbus and the early navigators and is the Sargasso sea of modern geographers.

The floating seaweed was formerly supposed to have grown near the Bahama and Florida shores and to have drifted to its present position. It is now, however, known to grow and propagate itself where it is found. In it are found globular masses of weed containing fish eggs and known as fish nests.

Investigations show that the floating weed of the Sargasso sea is the chosen breeding place of species of flying fish. The eggs found in the nests were attributed to certain species of fish found resting on them, but careful examination of the eggs shows that they really belong to flying fish.

Apparently, however, the flying fish do not make the nests themselves. Each end of the egg of these fish is furnished with bunches of very long filamentous tendrils, and by means of these the finely divided branches of the Sargassum weed have been caught together in globular masses. The eggs may be said to have made their own nests.

When they are fresh they are put in cakes, to which they give a sweet flavor, but they are more especially used for making bread after they have been dried and reduced to flour. By allowing them to ferment a kind of wine is produced, and by distilling them a brandy is obtained of which the Hindoos are very fond.—Vulgarisation Scientifique.

A Primer of Life.

Only a dreamer asks time and tide to wait for him when he might "head" them off, sell time for money and make tide turn a mill wheel.—Atlanta Constitution.

Don't Scold.

Mother, don't scold. You can be firm without scolding your children; you can reprove them for their faults; you can punish them when necessary but don't get into the habit of perpetually scolding them.

It does them no good. They soon become so accustomed to faultfinding and scolding that they pay no attention to it. Or, which often happens, they grow hardened and reckless in consequence of it. Many a naturally good disposition is ruined by constant scolding, and many a child is driven to seek evil associates because there is no peace at home. Mothers, with their many cares and perplexities, often fall into the habit unconsciously, but it is a sad habit for them and their children. Watch yourselves, and don't indulge in this unfortunate and often unintentional manner of addressing your children. Watch even the tones of your voice and above all watch your hearts, for we have divine authority for saying that "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh."

Geese Go South.

When a wild goose flies south it is folly for the wise man to cling to summer toys. All of Monday night men who stayed put to minister to a fellow lodger member at Lexington, heard the croaking of the winged host that swept over like racing clouds. Spurred by frost in the air, and prophecy that instinct teaches, the flocks that have summered in the lakes are gulf bound. Cloaked by rain and mist clouds, they flew low and one could almost fancy that he could see the feathered forms from which came the frog-like choruses. Believe the goose; there is going to be flannel weather in these parts.

He's Going Some.

Like his illustrious predecessor, President Tatt is showing original traits on his Western trip. For instance, he preached a sermon in Salt Lake City; went 1,200 feet into the bowels of the earth in Colorado, and rode a mule and ate dinner while sitting on a soap box in Colorado.

The New Kind.

Among the passengers in a parlor car attached to a southern train leaving Washington were a reticent individual desirous of reading his paper and a talkative person equally desirous of engaging the reserved one in conversation. At first the reticent man took the questions of his neighbor in good part, returning short but polite answers. Finally, however, he grew somewhat irritated at the persistence of the other.

"The grass is quite green, eh?" was the idle query that next came from the garrulous one as he gazed through the window.

"Quite," said the bored one, with a smothered growl. "But, then, consider what a change it is from the pink and mauve grass we've been having lately!"—Harper's Weekly.

Encouraging.

It was Billikin's wedding day, and he was teasing his young brother-in-law. "Well, Johnnie," he said solemnly, "I'm going to take your sister a long way off and have her all to myself, where you won't see her any more."

"No, really, are you?" said the lad curiously.

"Yes, I am. What do you think of it?"

"Nothin'. I can stand it if you can."—Pearson's Weekly.

Generous.

"What's your fare?" asked old Flint skin of his cabby the other day and was met with the stereotyped reply: "Well, sir, I will leave that to you."

"Thank you; you're very kind," said old F. buttoning up his pockets and walking off. "You're the first person who ever left me anything yet!"—London Fun.

Not at First.

"When you first saw Niagara falls did you feel that almost irresistible impulse to throw yourself over the precipice that so many experience?"

"No, I hadn't seen my hotel bill yet."—Cleveland Leader.

Quite Simple.

"What will you do with your money when you die?"

"I shall leave it to my children." "But suppose you have no children?" "Then it will go to my grandchildren."

Peary's Proof Made Public.

The Peary Arctic Club makes public Wednesday morning some of the proofs submitted by Commander Peary and members of his expedition to disprove Dr. Cook's claims of having reached the North Pole. The brief uses the testimony of the two Eskimos used by Dr. Cook in his polar dash in which the two natives and their father are made to say that the Brooklyn explorer never went out of the sight of land. With the testimony of the Eskimos Commander Peary submits a map of Dr. Cook's alleged route during his polar explorations and the entire brief is signed by Peary's companions on the Roosevelt. Dr. Cook replied to Peary's charges at Cleveland last night by saying that the Eskimos had kept faith with him concerning his instructions to him that they were not to reveal his discovery to Peary or any of his party. The Brooklyn explorer declared that he would have the Eskimos that went with him to the pole in America next year and that they would verify every detail of his journeys in the polar regions.

Minister Crane Bounced.

Charles R. Crane, of Chicago, who was recalled from San Francisco as he was about to sail for Pekin to take up his duties as Minister to China, was practically dismissed by Secretary Knox Tuesday. Mr. Crane wired his resignation to President Taft after being requested to do so by the Secretary of State. The Minister designated is accused of "talking too much" and letting out diplomatic secrets. In reply Mr. Crane gave out a scorching interview in which he intimates that the Department of State deliberately set about to bring about his retirement and insists that all he said was done with President Taft's approval and by the President's request. Interesting developments are expected to follow.

Up Before The Bar.

N. H. Brown, an attorney, of Pittsfield, Vt., writes: "We have used Dr. King's New Life Pills for years and find them such a good family medicine we wouldn't be without them." For Chilis, Constipation, Billiousness or Sick Headache they work wonders. 25c at Oberdorfer's.

Newspaper Men Win.

Judge Anderson, of the United States District Court at Indianapolis, Tuesday refused an order, applied for by the office of the Department of Justice, for the removal of Delavan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, to the District of Columbia for trial in the Panama Canal controversy. Judge Anderson's opinion was a scathing arraignment of the prosecutors, and he said the News' comments were justified by the facts.

Parts of Woman Found.

The headless and armless trunk of a woman's body, the lower limbs of which were discovered in a suit case at Tiverton, Mass., Monday, was found in Tiverton Tuesday afternoon. The torso lay in the bushes at a point about one and a half miles from the place where the legs were discovered.

Editor Shoots Back.

J. Wesley Robards was shot and fatally wounded by John G. Pulliam, editor of the Harrodsburg Herald, in the office of that paper Tuesday afternoon. Robards fired on Pulliam, who was at his desk, and wounded him in the shoulder, and the latter returned the fire and the bullet penetrated Robards' brain. Robards had accused Pulliam of intimacy with a relative.

Fall Surprise the Season's Wonder

And why? Because unusual. Out of the ordinary. Merchants usually wait until the middle of the season to cut prices. Stocks are then broken, choice things sold, only odds and ends left. It remained for us to take the initiative, to blaze the way. This is a

BROWER HABIT!

To Lead and Not to Follow, is our motto. Surprise was caused, wonder created, that we should take our Fall stocks, more comprehensive in detail, more varied in assortment, larger in quantity than ever before, and cut the prices below the margin of profit. The surprise fetched trade, the wonder brought customers, the object and aim of our sale the result desired. Listen to the voice of economy quote prices from the different departments.
